

Dr. Asha Albuquerque Pai

Associate Professor (Senior Scale)

Faculty at the Department of Social and Health Innovation, PSPH, MAHE. She is actively engaged in teaching courses on social work methods, counselling, leadership, soft skills and human resource development. Alongside her teaching responsibilities, she coordinates field practicum and supervises student projects and community-based interventions. She has presented her work at national and international conferences, published in peer-reviewed journals, and led several community-based initiatives integrating teaching, research, and field practice.

Role in MSc in Global Health

Dr. Asha Albuquerque Pai, is a faculty member for an elective offered in MAHE and will also be responsible for taking the students on a community immersion camp.

Fields of interest

Dr Asha's academic interests include leadership studies, youth development, workplace wellness, palliative care and social work education.

Research partners

- Palliative Medicine and Supportive Care, KMC
- Indian Association of Palliative Care
- Udupi Power Corporation
- District Labour Administration

Thesis supervision

Dr Asha Albuquerque Pai has supervised over 45 PG student theses and is presently a MAHE-recognised Co-Supervisor for PhD theses.

Further information

